

Job Title: Senior Accountant – Rotational Development Program

Location: Multiple Locations

Description:

AgReserves, Inc. is a multi-national, multi-corporate company that operates investment farms and ranches throughout the world.

We are excited to announce that there are four openings in our Senior Accountant - Rotational Development Program. This is a two-year rotational program designed to develop the future financial leaders of our company. The program is designed to teach critical aspects of the company's accounting functions, internal controls, policies, procedures and business processes to enable individuals in the program to effectively influence the future direction of the company. This program does require some travel. Upon successful completion of the program, individuals will be assigned a position at one of the company's business units, at which time, relocation is required.

Below are the four locations that we currently have openings for in our Senior Accountant - Rotational Development Program:
